IOP Publishing is a not-for-profit learned society publisher with a reputation for quality and high standards. It is one of the world's leading publishers in physics and related subjects.

Our journals are international in authorship and in readership and so our reviewers are carefully selected from the top names in the international research community. Reviewers are asked to review the submitted papers and report on their scientific quality, originality and presentation. Their reports are invaluable in ensuring the high standards of articles published in the journal and thus contributing to the promotion of the best scientific research worldwide. Their work as a reviewer has been valuable in helping us to maintain these scientific standards.

Yours faithfully,

Heather Fish
